Hi Jeffrey,

Below is a summary of my work thus far and a proposal as to how to move forward.

- drafted and optimized 5 websites.
- 3 of those websites stay on the 1st page.
- 1 website is just shy of the 1st page.
- your main website: www.jeffreyepstein.org has had approx. 80,000 visitors-- now at a rate of 11,000 per month.

- drafted and optimized 2 blogs (main blog and ideas forum).
- both the forum and blog are on the 2nd page

- published 40+ press articles
- published and update 20+ public profiles
- revamped and update Wikipedia site.
- edited 25+ Reputation articles and website pages.

Reputation's focus for Month 1 was to create website content. They have created:

- 3 websites (each has 4 pages)
- 3 blogs
- 12 blog articles
- 3 press articles
- 10 guest article links

Reputation's focus for Month 2 will be purely technical: to push up the content created. Specifically:

- 8 websites (5 of mine-- 3 of theirs).
- 5 blogs (2 of mine-- 3 of theirs)

Moving forward: I would like to:

- monitor Reputation's progress and edit any work-- through Month 2.
- continue to optimize the education and USVI sites until they get on the 1st page. Will list them in philanthropy directories and additional press releases.

--I'm hoping to concentrate on one project with you that you would like to accomplish. Could I come in and talk to you about this?

I have some ideas in mind. One is to back what you think is the most promising research being done in cancer and actually see it through to success. For ie: see link on the Institute of Immunology at the University of Oslo: <http://sciencenordic.com/immune-attack-cancer-cells>. (When I say 'back' it's not just financial support-- but intellectual/research support). Another idea is to write a book on gravity: an ultimate definition of what you think it is. Please see Dava Sobel's website. She is a brilliant science writer-- author of Longitude. <http://www.davasobel.com/> She has received numerous honorary PhD's as a result.

looking forward to seeing you,
