

From: mike keesling [REDACTED]
To: Jeffrey Epstein <jeevacation@gmail.com>
Subject: Re: "aggravation" factor
Date: Thu, 09 Dec 2010 05:34:09 +0000

Hey Jeffrey,

appreciate that...although the wire hasn't arrived on my end, I'm confident by tomorrow morning it will appear, so in the meantime, in light of today's drama, I went ahead and picked up a new server and just got back from dropping it off with my tech team so it will be up and running late tonight. As long as google sticks to their schedule we should recover from the approximately 24 hours down time and see some more boosts to things around the 12th or 13th of this month.

I can understand your dislike of intermediaries, and within limits, don't mind communicating with you directly when the occasion requires. (email preferred when possible) Normally, I choose to be off the grid as much as possible, I find it makes life much simpler. Also, please understand, Al has brought me some interesting and financially beneficial projects over the last few years, and he is a resource that is fundamental to the ongoing efforts and success of this project. I'm basically clueless when it comes to esoteric sciences.

Finally, I heard you when you were talking about the importance of your sites, as opposed to bogus/other Jeffrey sites being on first page of google....in that people will keep searching until they find you. Right now the .org (philanthropy) and science sites are, at least somewhat, about you, as is Wikipedia on which a lot of time and effort has gone into tweaking it over time...it's the only way to make those changes stick, while simultaneously defusing and undoing incoming "nasties" from others...Wikipedia is an ongoing effort and battle. We've also allocated time and effort to cleaning up the "google suggest topics" (those alternate choices when you start typing jeffrey epste....), again an effort that must be done over time to be successful.

So, do you want/need something more in line with money management or anything of that ilk for a site about you, as the next 60 days needs to be spent maintaining what we already have (science, .org, sports), as well as moving up the "other" jeffrey's while continuing to move the science and .org sites upwards....BUT, AT THE END OF THE DAY, the only way to remove huffington post etc. is to move other things above them....nothing ever goes away on the Internet, the best we can realistically shoot for is to make the "bad" stuff much harder to find. That means I STILL need to create at least two, possibly three more "jeffrey epstein" sites in addition to all that is already going on.

I'd love to know your thoughts on the subject matter for these next two or three sites...the subject matter you feel would be most beneficial to you. If you think the wikipedia, science and .org sites are enough of a presence for you as long as they get to the top positions, let me know that too. That way I can better adjust my strategy to your needs.

thanks again for sending the wire and sorry for the length of this email.

Mike

Jeffrey Epstein wrote:

I understand, however i do not like intermediaries.. there is no reason. you and i are fine, i sent your money today..

On Wed, Dec 8, 2010 at 4:48 PM, mike keesling [REDACTED] wrote:

EFTA00710769

Hey Jeffrey,

There's a reason why I as a rule do not deal directly with clients. that is what i told al this morning, and have always told him but he kept insisting and insisting and insisting. (Although, to be honest, I had no problem with our conversation.)

I just got an angry phone call from him accusing me of making you think that he was being dishonest with you. That certainly wasn't my intent. I know for a fact that he has been not making a single cent on any of the monies you've wired directly to me and yet has been working his fucking ass off on your account. (And I've enjoyed giving him ferocious assignments)....To his credit, Al has delivered everything I've asked of him and on a timely basis and we would not be anywhere close to where we are currently without his efforts (but don't tell him I told you so.)

When we were talking on the phone today about funding before you started making payments to me directly. i actually thought they were coming from al. I didn't pay any attention to that. My form of bookkeeping is pretty simplistic....money comes in before I start work and goes out as soon as others start working for me.

At the end of the day I'm happy as long as there's something left for me. I'm sorry I wasn't clearer during our phone call and didn't mean to cause confusion.

Don't take this the wrong way, but i still think it best to continue dealing with al.. my rule works, at least for me, and is there for a reason.

Mike

--

The information contained in this communication is confidential, may be attorney-client privileged, may constitute inside information, and is intended only for the use of the addressee. It is the property of

Jeffrey Epstein

Unauthorized use, disclosure or copying of this communication or any part thereof is strictly prohibited and may be unlawful. If you have received this communication in error, please notify us immediately by return e-mail or by e-mail to jeevacation@gmail.com, and destroy this communication and all copies thereof, including all attachments.

EFTA00710770