Subject: Jeffrey's domain information

Hi Cecile,

There were actually three websites that we created, including one on sports...

All three websites are currently hosted on Mike Keesling's private server, although we removed all content on them some time ago under Jeffrey's direction.

There are two possible paths.

1. We transfer ownership to all three named domains over to Jeffrey. This will require some paperwork, and working with the individuals or entities that you want the domain transferred to, so that it is transferred properly, and according to Jeffrey's wishes.
2. Jeff's people will need to have their own server, and then, Mike can point the domains where ever he wants. Then, Jeffrey's web content providers can build the sites on their own servers, and the domains will be valid, keeping all the enormous amount of unique and very powerful links that we set up.

The first option is the safest for Jeffrey, and gives Jeffrey full control over his domain names (the way it should be).

To facilitate this, it would be best for Jeffrey's people to deal directly with Mike Keesling, as either path will require him to trade information back and forth. I have already been in contact with Mike, and he will expect to hear from them, and do what needs to be done.

Mike's email is:

[REDACTED]

This should be what you need.

My best to Jeff.

Best,
Al
